

Jay Smooth outs the ringers

By Steve Thorngate

October 26, 2011

Jay Smooth's video blog is always good; last week's was especially good:

I love Occupy Wall Street for how it manipulates all the news media's biggest cornballs into outing themselves as cornballs. I love watching them go on and on about how they have no idea what everybody's protesting. I love watching them pretend it's just a bunch of hippies who don't matter because they don't dress respectably. I love how when it gets too big for that, they start saying it doesn't matter because it's a bunch of yuppies who do dress respectably.

He then explains how such pundits are like the ringer in a three-card monte con game. Watch it all: