

Monday digest

January 30, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Peter Hawkins on Dante's enduring appeal and A. N. Wilson's new book: "A. N. Wilson's literary biography aims to bridge the gap between the Commedia and nonspecialists who, allegedly abandoned by the professionals, are like sheep without a shepherd." (subscription required)
- Glenn Hinson reviews Belden Lane (subscription required)
- Diane Roth on the weak in faith and the Bible's difficult questions
- Gretchen Ziegenhals blogs the lectionary
- Steve Thorngate posts a video in which Kermit and Piggy meet the press

In the news:

- Catholics rally against Obama contraception mandate
- Woman charged with embezzling \$1 million from NY archdiocese
- The end of 'compassionate conservatism'?