

Wednesday digest

August 29, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Stephanie Paulsell on a 1930s photo project about the Shaker villages: "Photographer Noel Vicentini captured the end of the Shaker paradise, Eden going to seed. He seemed especially interested in places of joining." (subscription required)
- David Heim on William Jennings Bryan: "At a major party's political convention 100 years ago, a fundamentalist Christian made an impassioned speech. It was not what you might expect."
- Jim Smucker reviews John Knapp's book on the church and businesspeople (subscription required)
- On Obama and the need to be twice as good and half as black

In the news:

- Lutheran federation to assist Syrian refugees in Jordan