

Thursday digest

September 13, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Allen Verhey reviews Jeffrey Bishop, who is "both a physician and a philosopher. Here he turns his clinical and analytical gaze on medicine, and his diagnosis is bleak." (subscription required)
- Rachel Stone reviews Lynn Gerber, whose "interaction with the discourses of evangelical weight loss and sexual reorientation is engaging, surprising and admirably charitable."
- Debra Bendis on teacher evaluation and the Chicago strike
- Steve Thorngate on why Amazon is building a bunch of new warehouses