Friday digest

October 19, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Isaac Mwangi on religious tensions in Kenya: "Kenyan Muslims are a marginalized minority. Many are concentrated in Coast Province, where unfair land distribution is a festering wound." (subscription required)
- Rachel Stone on the gospel and obesity
- Chris Brundage's new (old) name for God
- "The butterfly doesn't know where she is in her thousand-mile migration," a poem by Jeanne Murray Walker

In the news:

- S.C. diocese defecting from the Episcopal Church
- Report: Knights of Columbus and allies are leading funders of anti-gay marriage drives
- Archbishop who oversaw nuns probe transferred to Indianapolis
- Adventists call actions to allow women's ordinations 'mistakes'