

Friday digest

October 26, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Stephanie Paulsell on saints and doubters: "Faith and doubt are often posed as opposites. Yet Thérèse of Lisieux and Virginia Woolf are part of the same history."
- MaryAnn McKibben Dana on deep acting in ministry
- Gail Irwin on what's she's learning from grief
- "The temple called Beautiful," a poem by Brett Foster