Wednesday digest

May 22, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Sam Wells on the people who sleep outside his church: "When I open the sanctuary doors in the morning, I see the face of Christ in the shadow side of the welfare state."
- Randall Balmer on evangelicals and the redemptive symmetry of immigration reform
- Carol Howard Merritt on ministry and Costco lasagna
- Dennis O'Brien reviews A. C. Grayling (subscription required)
- Steve Thorngate on one upside of everybody constantly filming everything with their glasses

In the news:

- Chelsea Clinton to promote interfaith work at NYU
- ANALYSIS: Does religious freedom report need more 'teeth'?