Gerda Liebmann's Daily Cross began on Facebook. Soon other photographers expressed interest in participating, and Liebmann began posting the global community's photographs of crosses. "At first, this Daily Cross project felt like a form of visual play. It was fun and challenging to find crosses on the street, in stores and in nature. . . . But soon the project took on another dimension. Looking for the symbol of redemption in the world began to feel more and more like seeking evidence of redemption itself.” The collective act of finding “that stark symbol of the Christian faith” is also each photographer’s journey to God, through Christ on the cross.
