What we heard on Christmas Day

by Julie L. Moore in the November 27, 2007 issue

Silence like early morning, like indigo Deepening at the bottom of the sea. For hundreds of years.

No voice to say this is the way.

Or tomorrow, he comes. They raised

Their questions, rose each morning, found

No answers. Unless you count Wait. But after the hush Of prophecy, the long line of law,

Exile centuries ago just a bitter aftertaste In their empty mouths, sting Of dust on their ribs dulled, almost imperceptible,

A baby wailed. And if you listened close, You knew your ears did not deceive you. He had entered the ebony tomb

Of Earth, loosening at last his long-held tongue, The star a halo of song blaring overhead, God is not dead, nor does he sleep.
