

So what church DID that Adam Sandler movie shoot in?

By Steve Thorngate

November 18, 2011

A couple issues ago the Century ran an article by Matt Fitzgerald of Wellesley Hills UCC in Massachusetts, a church approached by a movie studio that needed a space rental to shoot an upcoming Adam Sandler movie (which looks awful but perhaps slightly better than the current Adam Sandler movie). Fitzgerald tells a great story about how the church came to the difficult decision to turn down the offer.

The Hollywood folks looked elsewhere. Here's an article about the church that said yes.