Monday digest

February 6, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- The Century editors on the HHS contraception mandate: "We disagree with the Catholic bishops' stance on birth control.
  Nevertheless, we think HHS should offer a broader religious exemption."

- David Henson on male privilege, parenting and the Episcopal priesthood

- David Lose blogs the lectionary

- John Petrakis reviews We Need to Talk About Kevin (subscription required)

In the news:

- French candidate wants to put church-state separation into constitution
- U.S. tourists to Israel advised to dress modestly
- Canadian imams issue fatwa against honor killings
- Egypt's humanitarian problems need addressing, say Christian representatives