Wednesday digest

February 8, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Steve Thorngate on Amazon.com, state sales tax and the Century website: "We need states to take in enough revenue to provide the services people rely on. We need this more than we need tax-free online shopping." (subscription required)
- Thorngate on additional changes to the Century site
- John Petrakis reviews the film Carnage

In the news:

- Rick Warren finds a new purpose: weight loss
- Appeals court strikes down California ban on same-sex marriage
- Catholics support White House contraception mandate
- Bishops seek forgiveness for clergy abuse
- Dickens and religion: A tale of two views