

Where I've been...

By Carol Howard Merritt

March 6, 2012

Here are a few places that I've been (physically and virtually) during the last couple of weeks:

I was in Dallas for the NEXTChurch, a gathering of Presbyterians thinking about the future of the church. I preach on this stream. It's not edited, but it's at about 3:49. I preach on what it means to share breath, bone, and blood.

I blogged at Duke Divinity's Call and Response blog here.

And, by coincidence, Chris Yaw also interviewed me at ChurchNext (which is completely different than NEXTChurch). Chris drew a great deal from my first book, Tribal Church, as we talked about welcoming young adults.