

Thursday digest

April 12, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Philip Jenkins on apostasy in the real world: "For some Christians, the menace of apostasy is anything but distant or theoretical." (subscription required)
- Kristine Culp reviews Wendy Farley, who "formulates a theology of Wisdom incarnate--unleashed by divine desire, found in ordinary life and born in a manger." (subscription required)
- Steve Thorngate on Ross Douthat's "Christian center"
- Ryan Dueck on faith and failure

In the news:

- Mitt Romney on the cusp of making major Mormon history
- Traditionalists facing showdown with Vatican
- Australia's Anglican church still divided over women's ordination