

Wednesday digest

August 15, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Amy Frykholm talks to Sister Nora Nash, shareholder activist: "We do not shame a company. If there is shaming, the company brings that on itself." (subscription required)
- Richard Kauffman on David Barton's truthiness
- Steve Thorngate on the Family Research Council shooting and the problem of defining "hate"
- Cindy Crosby reviews Anne Lamott: "Anne Lamott fans: if you're expecting a reprise of the gritty Operating Instructions, this isn't it. But read on."

In the news:

- March for Life leader Nellie Gray dead at 88
- Muslim woman files suit against Disney over headscarf dispute
- Gospel artist BeBe Winans opens up about Whitney Houston
- Members of fringe Amish group request word 'cult' be banned from hate-crime trial