Tuesday digest

October 2, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- o David Heim on the Civil War, military burial and the role of government
- Allan Bevere on why Pulpit Freedom Sunday misses the point
- Beverly Roberts Gaventa's picks for new books in New Testament
- Kathy Wolf Reed's lectionary column for Sunday, October 14 (subscription required)
- Jason Byassee reviews Rev.: "I feared that Rev. would reprise the saccharine sweetness of The Vicar of Dibley. Episode one set me straight." (subscription required)

In the news:

• Descendants want justice for Connecticut witches