Wednesday digest

October 24, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Deb Richardson-Moore on the homeless-mission church she serves: "I once nailed the doors of my church shut. I needed to keep a burglar out who'd been looking for something to huff. Still, it seemed so antigospel." (subscription required)
- New Century intern Steven Porter on a niche exegesis of the Apple logo
- John Vest: "God doesn't cause rape."
- o "Mrs. Job," a poem by Brian Doyle

In the news:

- Why is Billy Graham so involved in the 2012 elections?
- Jews rally around woman arrested for praying at Western Wall