

Thursday digest

November 8, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Mark Heim reviews books by Robert Johnson and David Bebbington:
"Scholars who devote themselves to interpreting Baptist tradition must contend with a community that is not sure it has one." (subscription required)
- Logan Mehl-Laituri on Veterans Day
- Amy Frykholm on three common distortions about poverty
- "Questions concerning technology," a poem by Brett Foster

In the news:

- Arizona Democrat to replace defeated Pete Stark as sole atheist in Congress
- Buddhist, Hindu make history in new Congress
- What's next for religious conservatives?
- 'Mormon moment' ends with a loss – but Romney's religion still won