

Thursday digest

November 29, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Our latest "Ministry in the 21st Century" interview, with Dennis Sanders: "Progressive Christians do a good job with issues like LGBT rights, but we're less good at helping people become disciples of Jesus."
- Amy Frykholm on marijuana legalization
- Carol Howard Merritt's final post in her series on buiding a writing platform
- Peter Bannister's year-end picks in classical music
- "Tired of the stench, Haitians burn bodies in plaza," a poem by Diane G. Scholl

In the news:

- On 200th birthday, there's no 'bah humbug' for Charles Dickens
- Judge rejects much of Schuller's bankruptcy bid