

Tuesday digest

December 4, 2012

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Frank Honeycutt on prison ministry: "When I met Jonah I noticed two things: he was wracked with overwhelming guilt and very much wanted to die, and he knew the Bible." (subscription required)
- Debra Bendis on planning the holidays with her aging parents
- Paul Stroble on making highways straight
- Thomas Daniel's lectionary column for Sunday, December 16 (subscription required)
- "When the rain clears," a poem by Julie L. Moore