

Tuesday digest

February 5, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Lawrence Wood on online seminary: "The idea that students will reside on a campus and attend classes at specified times seems increasingly quaint." (subscription required)
- Daniel Schultz on the contraception mandate
- James McGrath on Genesis 1 and science
- James Alison's lectionary column for Sunday, February 17 (subscription required)

In the news:

White House expands exemptions from contraception mandate

Vatican signals options for protecting gay couples

Children conceived through rape open new front in abortion culture war

Justin Welby confirmed as new Archbishop of Canterbury

Retired Los Angeles cardinal punished over abuse revelations