

Monday digest

February 18, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- ◦ John Buchanan on learning to appreciate Lent: "The church of my childhood paid no attention to Lent. The season's words sounded too mystical to us, too strange and too Catholic." (subscription required)
- ◦ Bromleigh McCleneghan on Rachel Held Evans's guinea pig memoir and MaryAnn McKibben Dana's
- ◦ What Richard Kauffman heard at the National Prayer Breakfast
- ◦ Dennis Sanders blogs the lectionary

In the news:

- Cash-strapped National Council of Churches to move to D.C.
- Gay, transgender band breaks barriers in Christian music
- Newtown 'debacle' reopens old wounds for Missouri Synod
- House passes bill to give disaster relief to religious groups