

Monday digest

February 25, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Sarah Hinlicky Wilson on reading our R-rated Bible with children: "Much of the Bible is not fit for children—it's a book to ease little ones into, not drop them in cold. So what's the best way to go about this?"
- David Dark reviews Brian Walsh's book on Bruce Cockburn (subscription required)
- Carol Howard Merritt on what pastors should look in the mirror and say
- Yvette Schock blogs the lectionary: "Jesus is already on his way to Jerusalem, feeling the press of time: every present moment is the time for freedom from bondage, for healing, for bearing fruit."