

Monday digest

April 8, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Robert Westbrook on MLK's manifesto: "Fifty years ago, Martin Luther King Jr. wrote his "Letter from Birmingham Jail"—and the Christian Century published it."
- Mark Burrows reviews Douglas E. Christie (subscription required)
- Marilyn McEntyre blogs the lectionary: "The ways Jesus reveals himself to his followers in the post-resurrection stories testify to his delight in surprising those who love him, and whom he loves."
- John Vest on when to do confirmation

In the news:

- Poll: Americans love the Bible but don't read it much
- Tensions flare over women's prayers at sacred Western Wall
- Desmond Tutu wins 2013 Templeton Prize for work on forgiveness
- Pope Francis a huge hit with U.S. Catholics \(for now\)