

Thursday digest

April 11, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Scott Paeth on why we shouldn't blame violent media: "Does consuming violent media lead to a greater propensity toward violence? If anything, the data points in the opposite direction." (subscription required)
- Sam Wells on Naboth's vineyard: "American culture focuses on the law. But Naboth's vineyard reminds us that a healthy society is about relationships first and rules second." (subscription required)
- Richard Kauffman on self-published books
- Steve Thorngate on agribusiness and the Obama budget

In the news:

- Meet the 'Catholic NRA'
- White House council calls for action on modern-day slavery