Thursday digest

April 18, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Richard Lischer on the life of a book: "When you buy a used book, it's like joining a conversation in progress—a conversation that may outlast you." (subscription required)
- What else Heidi Neumark reads for help with preaching
- Patricia Tull's annotated list of new books in Old Testament
- David Heim on things we do that don't bring forth the kingdom
- Steve Thorngate on why background checks got blocked in the Senate

In the news:

- Obama praises Boston for overcoming the 'face of evil'
- Evangelicals see promise in immigration proposal
- Pope Francis redirects employee bonuses to charity