

Monday digest

April 29, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- The editors on terrorism and guns: "Three people died in the attack on the Boston Marathon. That same day, 11 Americans were murdered by guns."
- Jason Byassee on The Bible: "The hardest review to write is the B- review. And the History Channel's five-part miniseries is neither excellent nor miserable." (subscription required)
- Andrew Packman blogs the lectionary
- James Sledge on the impracticality of following Jesus

In the news:

- Female converts to Islam facing growing scrutiny