

Monday digest

July 1, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Doug Rossinow on why Occupy failed: "'We are the 99 percent' was a brilliant rallying cry. But those five words were Occupy's essential contribution, and they came at the start."
- Kathy Grieb blogs the lectionary: "Peace is an active power for healing and building relationships."
- A brief review of Deborah Van Duesen Hunsinger and Theresa F. Latini
- "The whole world over," a poem by John F. Deane

In the news:

- White House denies contraception exemption to private businesses
- My country 'tis of thee: Evangelicals score highest on patriotism
- The real fights over gay marriage are just starting