

Wednesday digest

July 17, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Richard Lischer reviews John Sexton: "Baseball continues to receive elegiac tributes. Sexton's latest joins company with the works of some impressive lovers of the game." (subscription required)
- Kelly Baker on whether Brad Pitt can save us from the \(secular\) apocalypse
- Martin Marty responds to Barton Swaim's WSJ review of Elesha Coffman's book
- "Catch of the Day," a poem by Luci Shaw

In the news:

- Christians in Sudan face increased hostility
- Baseball's Darryl Strawberry buries his past in new career as a pastor