

Thursday digest

August 8, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- The editors on liberals like us: "In discussions of Protestantism's winners and losers, what often gets lost is how much both liberals and conservatives have changed internally."
- Martin Marty remembers Robert Bellah
- Steve Thorngate on the California hunger strike at one month
- "Their illegible runes," a poem by Brian Doyle

In the news:

- Ethicist Shaun Casey to oversee religious engagement for State Department