

Wednesday digest

September 4, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Howard Eissenstat on the unrest in Istanbul: "Turkey may be a model for the rest of the Middle East, but the country faces deep problems. And religion is not at these problems' core." (subscription required)
- Ray Haberski on MLK's moral authority
- Martha-Lynn Corner on observing the pain of ministry
- Rodney Clapp on Curtis Sittenfeld's Sisterland: "Sittenfeld continues writing about women but not only for women." (subscription required)

In the news:

- Cardinal Dolan yucks it up with America's 'second most famous Catholic'
- Christians in Middle East: U.S. attack on Syria would be detrimental
- Unsafe abortions on the rise across Africa