

Thursday digest

October 24, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- The editors on the pastoral pope: "Pope Francis understands that people are rarely argued into the church, but they are often loved into it."
- John Backman on Thérèse of Lisieux and mental health
- Joanna Harader on sharing communion in her father's hospice room
- A brief review of Alexander McCall Smith's book on Auden

In the news:

- Exonerated inmates push Ohio to scrap the death penalty