

Tuesday digest

October 29, 2013

Subscribe by RSS feed: magazine, blogs, news. See all feeds.

New today from the Century:

- Brian Doyle's grandmother's thoughts on Protestants: "Her tiny cabin was part of an old Methodist campground, a fact that delighted her to no end. When it came to other religions, she had a sharp and amused tongue." (subscription required)
- MaryAnn McKibben Dana on the Vietnam Memorial and pastoral leadership
- Steve Thorngate on the Open Source Lectionary's "lectionary mods"
- Lawrence Wood's lectionary column for Sunday, November 10 (subscription required)

In the news:

- Air Force Academy drops 'So help me God' from honor oath
- Survey: Libertarian numbers are small but their social, political clout is growing