

Take the Century's lectionary survey

One of things I handle here at the Century is our lectionary-based content: the Living by the Word magazine column and the Monday online feature Blogging Toward Sunday. In assigning pieces to writers, I've found that I make a lot of assumptions about how people use the Revised Common Lectionary, how they observe the church calendar, etc. I'd like to have better information about this.

So, a survey. If you ever a) use the RCL and b) read our lectionary stuff, I'd be very grateful for your feedback. It'll just take a few minutes.
