Silent night

by Muriel Nelson in the December 15, 2021 issue

With wise men, a mom, countless sheep, and infinite nights of stars, songs like bushtits swirl off in old leaves, a twittering lost afar.

What more can anyone know scanning our muted sky than how wanting we are, and how a strange glow could quicken our breaths passing by?