Feather on the breath of God

by Sarah Rossiter in the January 26, 2022 issue

"The feather flew, not because of anything in itself but because the air bore it along." —Hildegard of Bingen

It could have landed anywhere, swamp or forest; instead, floating on the quiet air, the tiny feather down drifted, weightless, from the open sky, into my cupped and waiting hands. Cream-colored, fragile, soft as milkweed, a wordless message from beyond, reminding me, how like the feather, we're carried on the breath of God.
