

Lutheran editor changes position: David L. Miller to Lutheran School of Theology

News in the August 9, 2005 issue

David L. Miller has resigned as editor of The Lutheran, the magazine of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, to take an academic post. Miller will accept a five-year position as dean of the chapel and director of spiritual formation at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago, the ELCA announced recently. Miller has been on the magazine's staff since 1987.
